

Hardware Configuration Section

The Hardware Configuration section is populated with one or more subsections named FPGAX, depending on the number of FPGAs targeted in the selected Hardware Configuration. These subsection names correspond to the FPGA names displayed in the NI Measurement and Automation Explorer, to simplify their identification. The FPGAX sections are further separated into subsections representing each of the four types of I/O channels they support, as listed below.

Analog Inputs Section

Analog Outputs Section

Digital Inputs Section

Digital Outputs Section

Related Links

How to Select a Hardware Configuration